

Anastasia Bazilevskaya

Brief Biography

- Anastasia has been working as an ESOL volunteer tutor at BNL since 2011
- Currently, Anastasia is a graduate student at Palmer School of Library and Information Science (Long Island University) working toward Master of Science in Library and Information Science. She is going to receive her degree by the end of 2014.
- Master of Arts in Teaching Spanish and English Languages from Russian State Pedagogical University in St. Petersburg (U. S. official equivalence - Master of Arts in Spanish), 1996.
- Experienced in teaching English and Spanish languages to both children and adults.
- For over a decade worked as an interpreter, a travel guide, and a manager for tourism in St. Petersburg, Russia
- Has been living on Long Island since 2002.
- Anastasia enjoys spending time with her family, reading, watercolor painting, Fine Arts museums, opera and ballet, jazz and classical music concerts, and travelling.